Newborns babies are not the same as in the past. They have alterations at the energy level, and most doctors are not doing the diagnosis and treatment for this because they did not receive the training for this part of the human body when they were in medical school [1].

These alterations were detected in a study made by Huang (2021), in the article titled Energy Alterations and Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection, where she analyzed 1000 patients from her clinic in Brazil, measuring the energy of the five internal massive organs of the Five Elements theory of Traditional Chinese Medicine. These measurements were done using a radiesthesia procedure and at that time, she noticed what 90% of all her patients, independent of the age group and the type of diagnosis, have in common, no energy in the Liver, Heart, Spleen, Lungs and Kidneys [2].

All these alterations cause another type of immunodeficiency stemming from the modernization of telecommunications with the use of cell phones and computers and also, after the implementation of 4G, 5G and now 6G technology [3,4].

All these deficiencies were caused by the lack of teaching about the whole of the human body, which includes its energy levels, inside the medical schools throughout the world. This lack was initially caused by the implementation of the Flexner report in 1910, sponsored by the Rockefeller and Carnegie foundations, where they only considered as scientific what could be proven at the laboratorial or radiological level. And the energy part of the body usually is not visible to the naked eye and cannot be proven by radiological or laboratory exams, unless when there is a long period of an energy deficiency situation, leading to alterations, such as diabetes, high cholesterol, cancer, etc. [5].

So, the energy part of the human body has not been included in the curriculum of medical faculties and therefore, modern medical doctors are not capable of doing a diagnosis of alterations in this part of the body that has been greatly affected during the last 11 years (since 2014), as Huang (2021) showed in the article titled Energy Alterations and Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection and in the second article also written by Huang (2022) titled Are We Vaccinating Immunocompetent or Immunocompromised People for COVID 19? [2,6].

In these studies, she showed that the COVID-19 pandemic occurred because a large part of the human body was weak in energy inside the five internal massive organs, mainly in the Kidney, the organ responsible for the production of Zhen-Qi, which is the energy to prevent the entrance of external pathogenic factors inside the body, shown in the article written by Huang (2021), titled Is SARS-CoV-2 Strong or Our Body Is Weak? [7].

So, what she would like to show in this editorial article is that babies born from parents with a low level of energy in these organs will have the same energy deficiency of both genitors. This is important to know and understand because knowing this energy deficiency situation, the medical doctor who is treating this baby cannot use any kind of highly concentrated medication in their treatment because according to the Arndt-Schultz Law created in 1888 by two German researchers, the use of any kind of highly concentrated medication in this kind of population will lower the energy even more and cause complications or even the death of this patient [2,8-9].

For this reason, Huang (2021) wrote another article titled Why is Homeopathy the Medication of Choice in the Treatment of All Kinds of Diseases Nowadays? showing that, according to the pattern of energy in this new type of population that we are treating, we need to use more highly diluted medications instead of highly concentrated medications. The latter are used in most treatments these days, causing more tendency toward thrombosis, myocardial infarction, strokes, and more propensity to have cancer in the future because it is reducing the internal energy even more, leading to the weakening of the immune system [10-13].

Even the vaccines that we are using on these babies to prevent diseases should be more highly diluted instead of using highly concentrated vaccines, because the newborns are not the same as in the past, and this will prevent thrombosis or other complications or even the death of this patient [14].

Studies that can be found online on the Internet reveal that the majority maintain the use of highly concentrated medications to treat disease, but they are not taking into account, the new type of population that we are treating these days, considered immunosuppressed and not immune competent [1-2].

For this reason, we are facing so many cases of children with the diagnosis of autism and TDH or other conditions and diseases that we did not have in the past such as cancer among children because they all have in their background this energy deficiency situation and the majority of medical doctors are still not treating this condition, and only treating the symptoms caused by this energy deficiency situation [2,15].

So, the integration of the knowledge of Western and Traditional Chinese Medicine is very important nowadays, to understand at the deepest level, the formation of disease from the energy point of view, studied by Traditional Chinese Medicine, which has prevailed for more than 5000 years, and not just studying and treating the symptoms cause by this energy deficiency situation [2,16].

In the author's clinic in Brazil, she usually treats a woman and her partner before her pregnancy using highly diluted medications according to the theory written by herself (2020), titled Constitutional Homeopathy of the Five Elements based on Traditional Chinese Medicine. In this treatment, she focusses on increasing the energy of these organs, leading to a more immune competent state, reducing the chance of having complications in the gestational period and after the baby's delivery. Also, treating the pregnant women, the newborn will be treated at the same time, reducing its chance of evolving another disease that they have in common. This energy deficiency situation may generate children with some diseases or conditions such as autism, as we are facing nowadays [17-18].

Also, this is considered when we have a normal gestational period where the couple were not submitted to in vitro fertilization but we can see that even doing the in vitro procedure to achieve pregnancy, they may not have good results in all procedures, because they are still not treating the cause of this negative response to normal sexual intercourse fertilization, because they are not treating the lack of energy of the Kidney, that it is responsible for reproduction, shown in the article written by Huang (2021) titled Why is Infertility So High Among Couples Nowadays? [19].

To finalize this article, I would like to say that the integration of Western medicine with traditional Chinese medicine is very important nowadays, because they are looking at the same problem with different perspectives, the former from that which is material, and the latter from that which is energy before the onset of disease formation [20].

According to Albert Einstein (1879-1955), everything in this universe is composed of energy, including in this case, the human body and the newborns that come from the union of two human beings, one male and one female [21].
